EDITOR’S INTRODUCTION

Barbara BŁASZCZYK, Editor’s Introduction .................................................. 4-525

ARTICLES

Mirosław BEŁEJ, The use of complexity economics in the research on real estate market ................................................................. 3-462
Barbara BŁASZCZYK, Privatization reversal in Poland and Hungary ...... 4-527
Łukasz CYWIŃSKI, Ruslan HARASYM, Robert PATER, Kazimierz TARCHALSKI, Intangible capital, level of economic growth, and „Middle income trap” ................................................................. 3-439
Waldemar FLORCZAK, Michał PRZYBYLIŃSKI, Changes in the population size and structure and socio-economic development ...... 3-396
Piotr GASPARSKI, Thinking fast and slow, and optimism about personal Cash holdings ................................................................. 1-115
Janina GODŁOW-LEGIĘDŹ, Adam Smith’s natural liberty system ...... 1-47
Stanisław GOMUŁKA, Institutions and mechanisms of long term and medium term economic growth worldwide ................................. 3-343
Martyna KOBUS, Olga PÓŁCHŁOPEK, Modelling health indicators in a joint framework via factor copula Models ................................... 2-246
Piotr KOZARZEWSKI, Changes in the ownership policy of the polish state ................................. 4-555
Anna KRAJEWSKA, Sylwia ROSZKOWSKA, Minimum wage in OECD countries: changes and impact on employment and wage inequalities ... 3-353
Stanisław KUBIELAS, Technology gap and economic crisis in new and old Europe ................................................................. 1-7
Andrzej LISAK, Adam Smith – Five theses on the rationality in economics (On occasion of 240th anniversary of the release of “The Wealth of Nations”) ................................................................. 3-423
Tomasz ŁYZIAK, The Phillips Curve is still alive. Interpretation of low inflation episode in Poland ................................................................. 2-161
Anna MALINOWSKA, Liquidity constraints and the balance sheet channel of monetary policy transmission ................................................................. 1-71
Peter MIHÁLYI, Renationalization and recentralization in Hungary, 2010–2016 ........................................................................................................ 4-579
Rafal MIŚTA, Leszek MORAWSKI, Income, age, sex and cohabitation with parents. The case of Poland, Czech Republic, Estonia and Hungary 2-286
Wiktor PATENA, Barbara BŁASZCZYK, Post-privatization corporate performance. Evidence from companies privatized in Poland in 2008–2011 2-199
Dariusz SIUDAK, The relations between financial companies and real economy enterprises in the network of interlocking directorates on the Polish capital market ................................................................. 1–89
Dominik A. SKOPIEC, Adequacy of size and structure of China’s foreign Exchange reserves ................................................................. 2–222
Miklós SOMAI, Changing state interference in the economy: The case of France and Slovenia ................................................................. 4–598
Miklós SZANYI, Nationalization and growing state intervention as a threat to market institutions ................................................................. 4–635
Éva VOSZKA, Nationalizations in Hungary in an international context ................................................................. 4–617

MISCELLANEA

Subhakara VALLURI, Is there a causal relationship between grains futures and agricultural equities? ................................................................. 3–83

DISCUSSION ARTICLES

Leszek ZAREMBA, Replication of financial instruments which compensate lower share prices ................................................................. 3–502

ESSAYS

Jerzy KLEER, Civilizations at critical stages ................................................................. 1–135
Zbigniew MADEJ, Piketty and Marx on the fate of capitalism ................................................................. 2–312

REVIEWS

Marta BŁĄD, Between dreams and lies: On “The delusions of economics” by Gilbert Rist ................................................................. 3–512

YEARLY CONTENTS ................................................................. 4–656